DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. The specification has not been checked to the extent necessary to determine the presence of all possible minor errors. Applicant's cooperation is requested in correcting any errors of which applicant may become aware in the specification.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

- 2. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:
 - The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.
- 3. Claim 16 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. The specification does not support a non-oxidizing atmosphere ranging from about 50 psi to about 500 psi.

Double Patenting

4. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir.

Art Unit: 1714

1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

5. Claims 16-20 are provisionally rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claim 40 of copending Application No. 10/810,899. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other for the reasons set forth below.

The claim of 10/810,899 recites a green carbon foam comprising a density ranging from about 0.1 g/cm³ to about 0.8 g/cm³ and a compressive strength below about 6000 psi in product-by-process language. The claim is silent with respect to a thermal conductivity below about 1 W/m °K.

Applicant's attention is drawn to MPEP 804 where it is disclosed that "the specification can always be used as a dictionary to learn the meaning of a term in a patent claim." In re Boylan, 157 USPQ 370 (CCPA 1968). Further, those portions of the specification which provide support for the patent claims may also be examined and considered when addressing the issue of whether a claim in an application defines an obvious variation of an invention claimed in the patent. In re Vogel, 164 UPQ 619 (CCPA 1970).

At page 9, lines 4-5 of the copending application, it is disclosed that the carbon foam has a thermal conductivity of less than about 1 W/m °K. Thus, the instant claims are a variant of the green carbon foam of the copending application.

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection because the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.

6. Claim 16 is provisionally rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claim18 of copending Application No. 10/810,840. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the foam products appear to the same or similar even though the green carbon foam of the present invention is prepared by a different method,

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection because the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.

- 7. Claim 16-20 are rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-4 and 6-10 of U.S. Patent No. 6,656,238. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the foam products appear to the same or similar even though the green carbon foam of the present invention is prepared by a different method.
- 8. Claims 16-20 are rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 13-18 of U.S. Patent No. 6,749,652. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because while the claims of the patent are silent with respect to the step of controlling the pressure in the reactor wherein the pressure is maintained below about 500 psi, the claim is written using comprising language and is thus open to this additional step.

- 9. Claims 16-20 are rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-6 and 10 of U.S. Patent No. 6,849,098. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because while the claims of the patent are directed to tooling for the fabrication of composite materials, the claims as drafted read on the green carbon foam of the present invention.
- 10. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is relied upon for the general teaching of carbon foam and is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
